Phillips says amendments cure for constitution woes

BY DENA BISNETTE

State Representative Walter James Phillips of Bay St. Louis has still not decided how to vote on a bill for a new state constitution, but he feels a comprehensive amendment package would be the most efficient way to change the Mississippi Constitution of 1890.

Phillips is one of three representatives of coastal counties who served on a committee to draft a house bill designed to remedy problems with the state's 1890 constitution.

That bill had been scheduled for discussion this week, but Phillips said Saturday he is not certain when the matter will be discussed because Senate Bill 2229 passed 43 to four on Thursday.

State Senator Gene Taylor, also of Bay St. Louis, cast one of the votes for the bill, which contains a provision allowing a new constitution to be approved section by section.

The senate bill will now be sent to the house constitution committee for consideration.

"I'm still open-minded on this but I feel more questions need to be answered," Phillips said.

"I haven't read the senate bill yet but I'm leaning toward the amendment process."

He attributed the strong passage of the senate bill to "media pressure."

Phillips explained that he is considering three factors that could affect changing the constitution by way of a statewide voter referendum on the question of calling a constitutional convention.

He said the election and a constitutional convention could cost voters about $3 million, and that the convention could end up being dominated by special interest groups.

The representative said he also feels much of the existing constitution should be retained.

"About 75 percent of our constitution is in good shape. That's why I feel that a comprehensive amendment package would do. I've already put in nine resolutions for amendments that would eliminate sections of the constitution already declared illegal by the courts," Phillips said.

"I think the constitution needs a lot of revision, but not $3 million worth. There are a lot of other uses for that money. For one thing, we could put it back on textbook acquisition and it would nearly make up the $3 million originally devoted to that purpose."

He said he believes the shape of the new constitution could depend on the special interests of the delegates to the convention, and is particularly concerned about how much change will be allowed.

"It is my understanding that once a constitutional convention is called, they will not be subject to any restrictions from the legislature."

"If they decide to have it, I'll probably run as a delegate. I think someone has to be there who does not have any special interests, and I don't have any real special interests except having a good frame of government," the representative said.

Airport problems may end federal funding

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Nearly $1 million in improvements at Hancock County's Stennis International Airport were partially financed with federal funds.

But with recent reductions in general aviation activity at the airport, Port and Harbor Commission Director James DeBlanc is afraid the airport may no longer meet the eligibility requirements for federal grant funds.

The Federal Aviation Administration requires a minimum of 20 general aviation planes based at Stennis due to the size of the airport and the surrounding communities, he said.

"I don't believe we have that number based at Stennis at this time," DeBlanc said.

A telephone survey of surrounding airports indicates several previously based aircraft have been moved to other airports.

DeBlanc said the loss of general aviation planes is one of the reasons for leaving.

Inovair International, Ltd., was assigned the remaining two and a half years on a lease between Bay Aviation and the port commission in August.

Shortly after taking over as fixed base operator at Stennis, Inovair raised airplane tie-down charges for a single engine aircraft from $15 to $60.

"The $15 rate being charged was ridiculously low and was what was charged 20 years ago," said Jim Carson, Inovair business development manager.

However, when the commission contacted Inovair on the new rate, the amount was lowered to $40.

"We now have the lowest tie-down charge of all airports on the Gulf Coast," Carson said.

Charles Franzen, a former Inovair employee, said he doesn't believe the Hancock County residents are getting the best use of the airport.

"Inovair did everything possible to run off the light aircraft," Franzen said.

"I heard (Inovair President William) Carson say when he heard another light aircraft was leaving, 'Good, we don't need them,'" Franzen continued.

Franzen, who was a mechanic for Inovair, also said he was restricted to working on turbine engine aircraft while working for Inovair.

"They told me not to work on any other of the aircraft," he said.

Owners of light aircraft were having to go to Diamondhead to get maintenance for their planes, Franzen continued.

Gerald Howat was one of these.

"I am one of the few who have stayed at Stennis airport but to get maintenance on my airplane I had to bring in a mechanic from Diamondhead," Howat said.

"It is a good thing Diamondhead was so nearby with mechanics or I would have possibly had to fly one in from New Orleans or Slidell just to get my plane airworthy," he continued.

"Franzen said he could not work on my plane and since he left, I have not seen a mechanic out there," Howat said.

He also said he knew of many aircraft owners who planned to continue to pay high rental fees at other airports rather than return to Stennis.

In a recent letter to the Port and Harbor Commission, William Carson said Inovair's objective is to develop operations at Stennis in accordance with its obligations and to fully utilize the airport and its facilities.

Carson told the commission Inovair was providing all services re-

New information on Bay schools building program to be released this week

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Another public meeting on proposals for a building program to alleviate overcrowding and improve the quality of education in the Bay

St. Louis-Waveland School District will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday in the school board meeting room.

Superintendent Roger Oge said Friday he expects to elaborate on the "absolute needs" of the school district and have cost estimates available at this week's meeting.

Approximately 25 area residents and businessmen who attended the first meeting Thursday night appeared to be seeking specific facts and figures on the project which have not been prepared yet.

Oge said these meetings were originally planned to gather input into the concepts of the proposals and to see if the plans would meet the needs of the district.

"Up to this point I have staunchly refused to estimate the price of building plans but in view of the public's immediate concern over the cost, I hope to have a reliable estimate for the meeting," Oge said.

Oge proposes building an additional 30 classrooms at Bay Senior High School to create a complex for grades 7-12. With these additional classrooms, 1,100 students could be accommodated.

He also proposes to expand the seating capacity of the cafeteria, build a combined physical education facility and auditorium, a band hall and office and testing areas.

In this proposal, Bay Junior High would be reconducted to serve grades 4-6; North Bay Elementary School would be reconducted to serve grades kindergarten through three with a fixed enrollment of 400 students and Waveland Elementary would be enlarged to accommodate more than 400 students in grades K-3.

"Currently we have four classes in trailers; not only are these facilities dangerous to the children because they could be blown away so easily but they are bleeding the public in utility costs," Oge said.

"There are four classroom in the junior high school gymnasium and the noise level these students are receiving is much too high," he added.

"At Waveland, there are classrooms partitioned with children operating in intolerably confined areas," Oge continued.

Classes are being conducted in the high school library, which makes the library nearly useless, and in small, virtually windowless areas designed to be storerooms, Oge stated.

"We have five classrooms of children being housed in leased facilities and will need three additional classrooms next year to serve special education programs," he added.

"The bottom line is that we need an additional 22 classrooms immediately," Oge said.

"These additions will simply relieve what I and a large portion of the public believe to be an intolerable situation," he said.

If the district is to offer the curriculum truly needed, there is a need for five additional classrooms to serve grades 9-12, Oge stated.

"Two of these classrooms would be used for special children in need of faster-paced programs and the other three would simply broaden the curriculum to prepare students for college or vocational training."

"Good planning always includes some room for growth and if we use the proposal for a 7-12 grade complex we will need to plan at least three classrooms to grow," he said. "This shows the need for at least 30 classrooms just to offer the quality of education that the public deserves," Oge stated.

According to Oge, high school band students have no band room and junior high student are housed on the third floor of the gymnasium.

"Having any students housed on the third floor of a building as old as the junior high school is frightening," he said.

Oge also said the lack of an auditorium deprives the students of a place for assemblies, drama and senior plays and also deprives the public of the use of this type facility.

He said he understands the public's concern over the possibility of more taxes to fund this proposal.

"Even though we cannot predict what will be handed down to us from state officials, I have and will continue to hold the line on tax increases and make sure the public gets its money's worth for hard-earned tax dollars," Oge said.

At Thursday's meeting, Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. said he believed some of the concern over costs was due to previous proposals, which amounted to nearly $5 million.

"What concerns me as a businessman is that last week we were left with the impression that some of the millage may be coming off, but now this is going to be used for the new building program," said local realtor Robert Kane.

"The tax burden is getting to be awesome," he continued.

"It's getting where people can't afford to live here," Realtor Ames Kergolsen said.

"We realize the need to improve education but I implore the board to make the most efficient appraisal of what we need, realizing the financial situation we are in," Kane added.

Handicapped man opens own business

BY DENA BISNETTE

Although Hancock Countyman Bernard McMullen was once considered not employable, he has opened his own business.

McMullen is now "Bernard, the Can Man," as his beige and green sign on US-90 states. He is running an aluminum can salvage operation that was recently discontinued when Hancock Industries moved from downtown Bay St. Louis to Port Bienville Industrial Park.

McMullen, who is handicapped, is a former client at Hancock Industries. He said he learned how to operate can crushing machinery while he worked there.

"I had five years with Hancock Industries. It was my first job."

"This is the first time I've been in business for myself. I'm excited about it," he added.

According to his brother, Jim McMullen, Bernard McMullen had never had a job before being employed by Hancock Industries.

His family had tried placing him in a vocational rehabilitation program in Gulfport but took him to Hancock Industries after deciding that he was not making enough progress.

"He turned out to be one of our best workers," Hancock Industries Manager George Graves said. "He just about ran our can operation for about three years. We think he'll do well out here on the highway because a lot of people didn't even know we were crushing cans at our old location on Second Street."

Graves said McMullen's business is no longer connected with Hancock Industries, which is an arm of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center.

"He's an independent businessman now. It's his first job that's been in a competitive field."

"We normally try to get our clients jobs but Bernard just happened to surpass our wildest dreams."

"We never thought we would be able to prepare someone to start his own business," Graves said.

McMullen's collection station is located just east of Our Shopping Center on a vacant lot used annually for the St. Clare Seafood Festival. He is open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

He said he expects to do better on Saturdays than he does on weekdays, but added that there were a lot of customers the first few days he was open.

County to correct McLeod Park erosion with federal funds

BY DENA BISNETTE

Pearl River Basin Development District has agreed to provide some of the funding for a proposed erosion control project in McLeod Water Park.

The district is assisting the county with its application for federal funding for the project through the U.S. Soil Conservation Service.

The district board of directors voted Thursday to provide half the local share of the funding for a matching grant the county is trying to obtain, District Representative James Parker said.

The local share is 20 percent of the total cost of the project and will have to be provided as matching funds if the grant application is approved.

The approval of the full board was obtained after two board committees, a financial committee and a project committee, agreed to recommend the erosion control proposal.

Parker said the amount of funding the district can provide is limited to $20,000.

The total local share of the funding is $34,000, which places the amount the district is providing under the $20,000 limit.

The remainder of the local share will be provided by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, which operates the park through the Hancock County Park Commission.

The rest of the funds for the $170,000 project will be provided by the Soil Conservation Service, which will handle the actual work on the project.

Those funds, $136,000, will come from emergency funding sources if the grant is approved.

The work at the park involves stabilization of the banks of the Jourdan River, Parker said.

He explained that the park commission had originally planned to seek a grant to build additional bathhouses, then decided to propose the erosion control project after finding that the Soil Conservation Service had funds available for that purpose.

"They will postpone the bathhouse project, because this is a one-shot deal. That erosion is so bad that it could eventually affect the campground's growth," Parker explained.

"The erosion problem should be a pretty good size project," he added. "We're just glad that the opportunity was there."

The Soil Conservation Service has or is assisting the county with three additional projects for which funding has already been approved. The total cost involved is $71,000, with the county paying $14,200.

Those projects include repair of road erosion on Joe Moran and Ceasar-Necaise Roads and erosion around a bridge on Black Snake Creek Road.

Youngster overcomes premature birth problems, celebrates 7th birthday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
Michael Prendergast is celebrating his seventh birthday today but when he was born a full two months premature, doctors said he would never live.

"Michael had respiratory problems because of his premature delivery and one of his lungs collapsed within the first 24 hours after birth," said Anne Prendergast, Michael's mother.

But people would never know Michael had any problems now as active as he is, she added.

At age six, Michael is a first grade honor student at Waveland Elementary, has already competed in talent shows, has been chosen for a service award and tee ball player.

Michael weighed only four pounds when he was born at Forrest General Hospital in Hattiesburg and required a respirator to breathe.

Due to his premature birth Michael developed hyaline membrane disease, a common lung disease in prematurity.

"The original pediatrician I had been seeing told me shortly after Michael's birth that he would not live," Prendergast said.

"But I wouldn't give up hope and we got another doctor. I am so thankful for all the support I got at that time from family and friends," she added.

Doctors at Forrest General continued to care for Michael as his condition worsened.

Severe complications developed, both of his lungs collapsed and he was continuing to need the respirator to breathe.

The collapsed lungs meant Michael had to undergo two more surgical procedures to inflate his lungs.

"They had to shave Michael's head to put intravenous tubes and he had heart, temperature and breathing wires all attached to his tiny chest," Prendergast said.

After 13 days the Newborn Transport Team from the University of Mississippi went to Hattiesburg to help stabilize and transfer the baby to University Medical Center for continuing care.

"A special ambulance equipped with a portable incubator and respirator had to come from the university hospital to keep Michael alive on the trip to Jackson," Prendergast said.

In Jackson, Michael was placed in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit under the care of Dr. Glen Graves, neonatologist.

"Michael required intensive care and further ventilation for management of his severe lung disease," Dr. Graves said.

"If you have never visited an intensive care nursery it is very hard to imagine with all the tiny babies, so tiny and so very ill," Michael's mother said.

"Before we could even go in the unit we had to scrub and put on hospital gowns, she said.

It was surprising that as sick as Michael was, he was a well baby compared to most of the babies in the neonatal care unit, she added.

Michael slowly stabilized and began steady improvement which allowed him to be taken back to Forrest General after 14 days at UMC.

After his release from Forrest General Michael was enrolled in the Newborn High Risk Follow-up program at the university.

"For the first year of his life, he required careful evaluation of the lung disease which has slowly resolved," Dr. Graves said.

Michael was carefully evaluated for any other problems relating to his prematurity, including tests of vision, hearing and developmental evaluation by our child psychologist, he added.

"The doctors told me Michael had required so much oxygen after birth he could not see or hear," Prendergast said.

"Thank God all his testing is complete and he checked out fine from head to toes," she added.

Michael was recently released from the follow-up program and doctors said his lungs had fully developed.

"Today his lungs show no effect of the severe disease at birth," Graves said.

"I am so glad we have such a great neonatal intensive care unit in our state," Prendergast said.

This level of care is available to all babies from the richest to the poorest family through a program initiated in the 1970's with the aid of the March of Dimes.

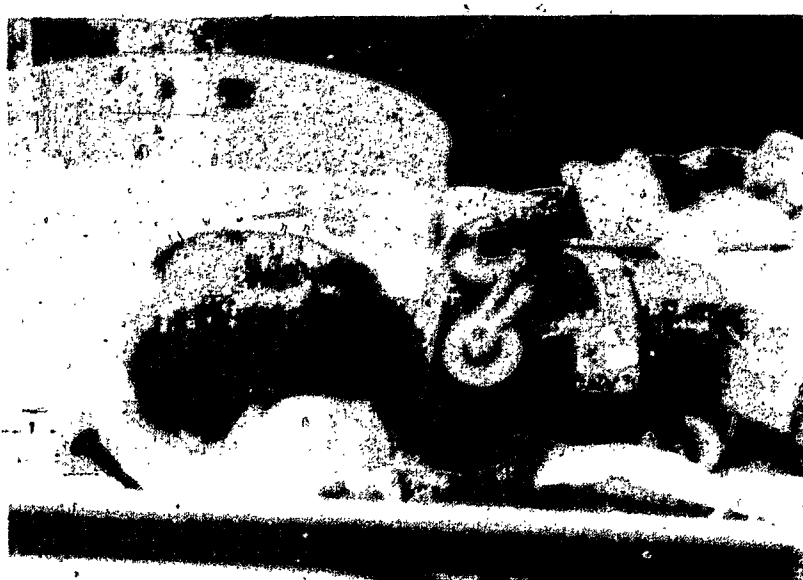

The Newborn Transport Team serves the entire state with the aid of a specially equipped ambulance, fixed-wing aircraft or helicopter.

"If it weren't for this advanced level of care for babies Michael may not have been here," Prendergast said.

Michael lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Prendergast and baby brother Edward in Waveland.

Although Michael Prendergast suffered serious respiratory problems at birth he is completely recovered today and celebrating his seventh birthday.

ALWAYS SMILING—Even in the hospital's intensive care unit and under an oxygen hood, Michael Prendergast smiled. According to his mother, Anne Prendergast, nurses said he was always smiling.

Insurance premium reduction reported

Attorney General Ed Pittman and Commissioner of Insurance George Dale are praising the actions of the Mississippi Insurance Commission in their approval of a three percent rate reduction in some homeowners' insurance policies.

Persons living within five travel miles of a municipality or certified fire protection district will be eligible for this reduction effective April 1.

At the Friday meeting, the commission also denied a 12.5 percent rate increase for homeowners' insurance sold in the six coastal counties.

The reduction approval came as a result of a request filed by the Insurance Services Organization, a national rating service which represents all of the insurance companies writing homeowners' insurance in Mississippi.

The commission has also approved several of the recommendations made last week by a special task force studying insurance rates. The task force was appointed by the commission at the request of Dale and Pittman.

"This is a positive step toward solving many of the insurance problems of homeowners in Mississippi," Pittman said. "Other recommendations of the task force will have to be implemented by the Legislature."

Pittman and Dale have asked the lawmakers to study the task force report and make the necessary changes in the laws which regulate insurance.

Rate reductions for standard fire policies and comprehensive dwelling policies have already been approved by the commission at Dale's request.

"Homeowners' insurance is a package policy which has a single premium for several different types of coverages," Dale said. "With this overall three percent reduction, the consumer will see a greater savings than the divided premiums charged under the standard fire and CDP policies."

We are noting more and more Neighborhood Watch signs as we drive about the area.

The City of Waveland is now putting emphasis on the development of new Neighborhood Watch areas within its community.

Any resident of Waveland interested in the establishment of a Neighborhood Watch may call Officer John Wilkerson at 467-3669. If Wilkerson is not in when you call, the dispatcher will take a message for him.

Neighborhood Watch is a very good program for any area, and we are glad so many citizens are becoming involved in helping police protect their properties.

You would be surprised at the number of Neighborhood Watches which are working in Bay St. Louis, Waveland, Diamondhead, and the county.

Any resident of the area interested in the establishment of a Neighborhood Watch may call their respective law enforcement agency.

Wouldn't it be good if every area of the county was in a Neighborhood Watch?

A special self-defense course will be offered by the Shotakan Karate School in Our Shopping Center, Waveland, with proceeds going to benefit the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The six-week self-defense course will begin on Feb. 2 at 7 p.m. with members of the Shotakan Karate School donating their time for the instructions.

This is the club's donation to our community and the proceeds are going to St. Vincent de Paul Society because of the help they offer our citizens.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

ASKING CITIZEN INPUT BEST FOR TAX PROPOSALS

We have now presented our legislative recommendations to the 1987 session, and I am hopeful that many of these proposals will be adopted.

Chief among my recommendations involved the construction of highways to better open up our state to economic development. I recognize that a coordinated, completed transportation network is vital to the location of industry in Mississippi. The highway program I am recommending will construct 450 miles of four-lane highways without increasing your taxes.

Our proposal incorporates the use of decline in bond service requirements to fund $460 million of new highway bond. Our program is a six-year, $665 million program.

The designation of specific highways included in our program would be left to the discretion of the legislature or to others in decision-making positions. We do propose, however, giving some weight to economic development in this program.

We believe this is a workable, fundable program that won't increase your taxes. On the other hand, the proposal that would charge an additional 5 cents per gallon of gas would make Mississippi the No. 1 in gasoline taxes in America. We already pay 9 cents a gallon; when you add the 6 percent sales tax, plus the proposed nickel, we will be paying 20 cents of every dollar we pay for gasoline in taxes. That would be the highest of any state.

My legislative proposals also called for a constitutional convention with delegates elected by you, the voters. When the framers of the 1890 Constitution drafted that document, they said it should be good for about 20 or 30 years. We have kept it nearly 100 years. Many items in the document are out of date with today's changing economic needs; many are out of line with court rulings. The time has come to allow our citizens the opportunity to decide if they want to hold this constitutional convention.

I also continue to oppose taxing our citizens any more. Just two examples indicate that we are supporting state services with our tax dollars. The Bureau of Census reports that for each $1,000 of personal income in Mississippi, we spend $20.31 for higher education, while the national average is $15.90 per $1,000. In other words, we are 28 percent above the national average. And the 1985-86 report of the Southern Regional Educational Board shows that Mississippi spends for higher education $153 per capita, a figure surpassed by only two of the 15 southern states studied. Mississippi, in fact, ranks 12th in the nation in actual dollars appropriated per student for higher education.

I have enclosed a copy of the specific list of our legislative proposals. I hope your editor will publish them along with this column, so the people of Mississippi can know what the needs of our state are and what we are proposing to do to meet those needs.

Subdivision residents seeking relief from street flooding

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Bay St. Louis

Re: Flooding of Hancock Heights Subdivision/Arcola Cove

Gentlemen:
Please find enclosed recent photos taken of Arcola Cove. As taxpayers, we have brought this matter up numerous times to both Councilwoman Coward and to Mayor Frapckiewicz.

With the least amount of rainfall, this section of our street floods and is virtually impassable to vehicles.

As we have not gotten any type of results on this severe problem, we felt that bringing it to the attention of the public might be one alternative that could alleviate this problem.

This is a nice residential area with a number of small children, not only on Arcola but Corinth and Fine also. This flooding is a problem for vehicular traffic, but is more of a hazard to the children.

If at all possible, can we get some type of action taken to reconcile this problem? Thank you

Sincerely,
Concerned residents

Administration calls for immediate cuts in VA health care

Thousands of eligible veterans would be denied Veterans Administration health care under an Administration budget proposal submitted to Capitol Hill, but the Chairman of the House Committee that oversees the VA budget says the proposal will be "soundly rejected."

The Administration is calling for an immediate cut of $75 million in the VA's FY '87 health care budget, and additional cuts are slated for FY '88.

"If Congress were to approve this proposal to rescind already appropriated '87 dollars - which is not likely - the VA would have to reduce the number of inpatients treated by approximately 15,000 and cut 212,000 outpatients visits," said Rep. G. V. "Sonny" Montgomery (D-Miss.).

Montgomery said the proposed '87 budget cuts are more harmful than they appear considering that half of the fiscal year has expired. If the proposed cuts were approved, nearly 3,000 VA health care employees would be terminated or furloughed by September 30. Funding proposals for '88 would require hundreds of additional staff cuts.

Preliminary VA budget documents indicate that costs for care provided in private hospitals will increase by more than 12 percent in 1988. However, costs for inpatient care in VA facilities will rise by slightly more than two percent. Montgomery calls this "a curiosity well worth investigating, especially in light of proposed reductions in VA hospital capacity."

The Administration also requested that all benefits under the New GI Bill be paid by the Department of Defense. The basic monthly entitlement is currently paid by the Veterans Administration with supplemental "kickers" paid by DOD. Montgomery opposes the transfer of funding responsibility saying it overlooks the fact that education assistance provided under the GI Bill is a readjustment benefit "historically and rightfully paid and administered by the VA."

The Administration proposed legislation to increase the VA home loan funding fee paid by veterans who receive VA guaranteed loans from one percent to two and one-half percent effective June 1. This would amount to an average increase of $300 - from $800 to $1,500 - in the fee paid by a typical veteran homebuyer. Similar proposals have been rejected by the Congress in recent years.

The Administration budget provides for a 3.5 percent increase in compensation benefits paid to service-connected disabled veterans and proposes that the annual compensation COLA be indexed to changes in the consumer price index. The COLA now requires annual Congressional action, a process that "ensures close examination" of the program, according to Montgomery, who opposes the proposed change.

The VA's Department of Veterans' Benefits would lose 298 employees under the Administration proposal, including 255 staff responsible for processing disability, death and education claims. Montgomery claims the new peacetime GI Bill will offset a declining workload under the Vietnam-era GI Bill. He expresses concern that the Administration proposal would create staff shortages in VA regional offices that could lead to delays in payments of compensation, pension, education, and burial benefits.

Clermont youth mount beautification effort

To the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Dear Sir,

This is a letter of concern to the citizens of Clermont Harbor about a group of young and powerful kids who have decided to do something about cleaning up Clermont Harbor.

You may have seen these kids. They are willing to go along the side of the roads and in front of the stores, restaurants, and bars in Clermont Harbor and pick up the trash to see Clermont Clean.

They came to us about this matter and we as parents and citizens of Clermont Harbor are asking for any support or donations you may give them to show your appreciation.

Jars have been placed in stores, restaurants and bars in Clermont Harbor for donations.

We are proud of them! How proud are you? Let's keep Clermont clean - let's support our kids!

Prediction: Clean-air restaurants to prosper

Dear Editor:

As my wife has asthma, we are able to eat only in restaurants having a non-smokers section.

There are very few of these along the coast. Even managers of those having several rooms which could be easily divided into smoking and non-smoking sections see no need to do so. They are afraid that they will drive away smoking customers.

More and more cities are passing ordinances against smoking in restaurants and other public places. I'll make a prediction: The first shrewd chamber of commerce along the coast which convinces its city administration to forbid smoking in restaurants will find diners from other coastal cities driving over there to eat, and their restaurant business booming.

Even smokers do not like to breathe smoke while they eat. They prefer to light up before or after their meal and make nearby patrons breathe smoke while they eat.

Sincerely,
Ross Sheldon

Attorney General urges victim compensation law

Jan. 19, 1987

Dear Editor:

I would like to share with you the enclosed information which was presented last week to the joint Senate-House Judiciary Committee hearing on victims' rights legislation.

I hope that you, in turn, will share it with your readers.

It shows with indisputable figures the difference between the treatment received by criminals and victims in our state and the reason we need the victims' compensation and assistance bills.

Very truly yours,
EDWIN LLOYD FITTMAN
ATTORNEY GENERAL
CAN WE AFFORD NOT TO?

The bill which would provide compensation for victims for medical expenses incurred as a result of crime would cost an estimated $200,000 during the first year it is put into operation.

The bill provides a period of one year from passage before any money is paid out, to allow time to build the victims' fund up to that amount.

We are suggesting that this bill be funded by adding a $25 assessment onto every DUI fine, which, according to Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol statistics for the year 1985, would more than pay for the entire compensation program.

As an alternative, we suggest that some of the money already coming into the general fund from fine assessments and currently being spent for other purposes, including construction of prisons, be diverted into the victims' compensation fund.

Other funding suggestions include employing restitution statutes already in the code, more rigidly enforcing restitution ordered by the courts, and putting any funds coming to criminals from book and movie rights into a fund for victims.

Even with these funding suggestions, the comment most often heard is, "It's a good idea, but we can't afford it."

We have heard the same thing said about almost every progressive program brought up for consideration.

Somehow, when the program is good and beneficial, the money is found to fund it.

Not too many years ago, we were forced by the federal courts to provide attorneys for indigent defendants. An often-repeated lament was, "This will bankrupt the counties." We are now providing attorneys for all indigent defendants and there is not one bankrupt county.

The state and counties provide adequate medical treatment for all inmates in a far greater amount than that which is asked for victims. This, too, has not caused any county or the state to go bankrupt.

Just as an example, we took nine counties—including the two largest and the two smallest in population—and added together the amounts they expended for medical treatment for prisoners in the county jails during the fiscal year 1985-86.

The combined population of these counties is approximately one-fifth of the state population.

Extending that figure and estimating that it is one-fifth of the amount spent for medical expenses in the 82 counties, you get an estimate $1,441,137.

This is more than seven times the amount we are asking for victims.

Are we, as a state, so heartless that we can find the money to pay more than a million dollars every year, not even considering what is spent at Parchman, for medical care for criminals and at the same time say we can't afford to spend one-seventh of that amount for the innocent victims of these same criminals?

COUNTY	POPULATION	AMOUNT

Watson's '87 outlook remains gloomy

Dear Editor,

I know that I haven't written the Echo for some time, but we are approaching an emergency situation.

Mid-size cars are still getting through Hotten Bayou, Golf Course Drive and the Kline-Dellale roads but we are losing compact and mini-compact in a worse number.

We are saving spot drivers and passengers but loss of luggage and car content is becoming prohibitive from an insurance standpoint.

Pot holes are thriving!

Asks from the persistent torrential downpours through the Chamber of Commerce should control everything is being up in Hancock County except the horrible color scheme on the new hospital.

If visitors are well, they will suffer nausea when they are exposed to those colors!

Happy 1987,

Blue Jeans Garden Club

The January meeting of the Blue Jeans Garden Club was held last Thursday, Jan. 15 at the home of Mrs. Robert Ortis, Waveland.

Mrs. George Heitzmann, co-hostess, opened the meeting with a prayer for two members unable to attend because of illness and all the sick, hungry and homeless in the world.

After dispensing with the reading of the by-laws until the February meeting, Mrs. A. M. Thomas, president, appointed her chairladies and committees for 1987. They include: Mrs. Frank Klien Jr., parliamentary; Mesdames Robert Ortis and Joseph Roppolo, program; Mrs. Edward J. Feahney, scrapbook and photography; Mrs. Lloyd Garcia and Mrs. Irene Graff, telephone; Mrs. Joseph Roppolo, Mrs. Talmadge Conway and Mrs. Ray Norton, games; Mesdames Sidney Coogan and Mrs. Heitzmann, awards; Mrs. Frank Peterson and Mrs. Kline and Mrs. Christian Neubig, silver bowl; Mrs. J. C. Goodloe, sunshine girl; Mrs. Clyde Ladner, Mesdames Gilbert Bretzel Sr., Davis Callier, Annabelle Cox, and Germaine Mains, plant sale; and Mrs. Thomas, publicity.

In the January plants and arrangements competition among members, winners in the various categories included Mrs. Ortis, potted plants; Mrs. William Schaefer and Mrs. Ladner, tie, wildflowers; Mrs. Garcia, dried arrangement; Mrs. Goodloe, horticulture; Mrs. Heitzmann, miniatures; and Mrs. Thomas, cultivated.

A special and immensely interesting program was presented by Mrs. Barbara Mitchell of Waveland, guest of honor, who has personally made the tour to Yugoslavia, and was showing two films of Medjugorje, including her own personally made outstanding film of the visionaries and their families.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Coogan were Mesdames Heitzmann and Conway.

Next meeting will be Thursday, Feb. 19 at the home of Mrs. Ortis, Waveland.

Diamondhead Garden Club

First vice president Mrs. Strabo Claggett presided at the Diamondhead Garden Club meeting in January.

Members were told that the club had been asked by the administrators of the new Hancock Medical Center to help with the beautification of the grounds. Mrs. William Neff, who is in charge of the club's participation, suggested that members donate plants or funds to add to those that the hospital will furnish.

Mrs. Wayne Waddington, chairman of Roadsides and Wildflowers, suggested that members plant wildflowers on their own property and several dozen members agreed to do so in early spring.

The Yard of the Month plaque was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bond. Mrs. Ray Whalen gave an interesting report on the habits of the robin.

A letter of thanks was read from the director of activities at the Reed Nursing Home for the gifts club members had given them at Christmas.

Mrs. H. D. Bustetter reported on the recent meeting of the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs, of which she is fourth vice president.

The following were nominated as officers for 1987-1988: Mrs. W. W. Dreher, president; Mrs. G. Z. Culler, first vice president; Mrs. K. Schwartz, third vice president; Mrs. M. Klein, recording secretary and Mrs. J. Owens, historian.

Club members will again participate in the Arbor Day ceremonies to be held at Beauvoir Feb. 13. The club has donated funds for one of the trees that will be planted.

Mrs. Claggett presented a recommendation from the board of directors that the club pay an annual rental fee for a room in the community center, hereafter to be known as the Diamondhead Garden Club Center; members voted unanimously to do so. Mrs. Joseph Finley was asked to be in charge of furnishing the room.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clarence A. Evans, made mention of the fact that the Sun-Herald had recently carried a feature article about Mr. Larry Strasburger, an honorary member of the Diamondhead Garden Club, and his orchids; he will also participate in the 1987 Coast Orchid show.

Speaker for the day's program was Mrs. Tracy Waddell, owner of Gulf Shores in Florida. Her talk was titled "Getting the Most Out of Your Houseplants," a timely topic, as the weather prohibits planting outdoors, giving gardeners time to give their houseplants more TLC. Her talk focused on light, temperature and water as being the main factors for growing health, beautiful houseplants.

Story Hour titles listed

Story programs are presented Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. at City-County Library on US-90 and Fridays at 10:30 a.m. at Waveland Library on Coleman Avenue.

City-County's program this week includes "What's Claude Doing?" by Dick Gackenbach; "A Bag Full of Pups" by Dick Gackenbach; "Frisky's Doghouse" and "Five Little Kittens," both finger plays; "Three Little Kittens," a flannel board story and the film, "Tawny Scrawny Lion."

Dr. David H. Mielke, Medical Director of the Inpatient Psychiatric Unit, Tulane University Hospital

"When someone is acting strangely, it doesn't necessarily mean a psychological problem. There can be less obvious causes. Our first step is to uncover the true source."

Tulane psychiatrist, Dr. David Mielke helped develop guidelines now accepted by the medical profession in America, for the proper use of many anti-depressant and anti-psychotic drugs.

In his experience, adults who become unaccountably confused and disoriented or who are severely depressed may be affected by problems that are not psychological, such as side effects from medications or physical ailments.

Dr. Mielke and a team of specialists look for medical as well as psychological causes for abnormal behavior to determine effective treatment.

Should the problem be severe enough to warrant hospitalization, Tulane's Inpatient Psychiatric Unit provides excellent care. Family and friends are included as part of the treatment process. Every effort is extended to restore the patient to effective function as soon as possible.

But, as is often the case, thorough evaluation may reveal one of several possible causes. Once identified, it can be dealt with by using the full resources that a university hospital makes possible.

As part of Tulane University Hospital and Medical Center, the adult psychiatric inpatient and outpatient facilities continue the 150-year-old tradition of medical leadership at Tulane Medical Center. For more information, call 588-5687 or 588-2317.

"Learn To Read" begins Monday

Mississippi Educational Television will broadcast a series of 30 half-hour programs designed to teach the basics of reading to functionally illiterate adults through phonetic methods.

The series, titled "Learn to Read," will begin airing Monday. Two programs will air weekly through May 10.

According to national educators, reaching functionally illiterate adults is a tremendously difficult task.

Many adult illiterates go out of their way to conceal the fact they cannot do what the average second-grader can do.

"Learn to Read" will offer viewers who are embarrassed about their disability the opportunity to learn basic reading skills in the privacy of their own homes.

Each "Learn to Read" program begins with a five-minute review of the previous lesson. The lesson portion of the programs consists of 15 minutes of introduction and practice of new material.

Separating the program elements are one-minute capsules of information intended to both instruct and entertain, as well as to provide a break from the more seriously approached curriculum.

A segment called "Getting Along" teaches the viewer practical reading skills such as how to recognize important signs, read food and product labels and use a telephone book.

Some programs feature well-known celebrities offering messages of encouragement and support to students.

The curriculum for "Learn to Read" is based on the Michigan Method, a phonetic system of reading instruction which combines the best elements of the widely used Laubach and Literacy Volunteers of America systems.

"Learn to Read" was produced by WXYZ, Detroit.

McMillen said he also expects to do better in spring and summer than during cold weather.

He is using weighing equipment and a can crushing machine provided by Shemper Salvage in Hattiesburg, the firm that buys the aluminum cans for recycling.

McMillen hopes his business will grow enough to allow him to employ some Hancock Industries clients on weekends.

"I told my friends out there that I wouldn't forget them," he said.

Presently, his niece Cheryl Rosencrans is assisting him by handling money and some of the weighing chores, since customers are paid according to the weight of the cans.

Some of the other members of the McMillen family are helping when business is heavy, Jim McMillen said.

"Mostly, Bernard weighs cans and runs the crushing machine, which is something he would have to teach us. Cheryl is helping out mostly because he has never handled money before, but he will eventually get used to doing it," he explained.

Jim McMillen said he is proud of his brother's new business.

"I see this as a foothold for handicapped people," he said. "Don't you see it that way?"

quired by the revised Minimum Standards for Fixed Base Operators.

He also said there has not been a significant decrease in the number of aircraft purchasing services at Stennis.

J. Carson said Friday no figures were available on the actual number of planes that had left Stennis.

"We want all the small aircraft available to locate at Stennis and we can offer the best facilities and prices," he continued.

"We want general aviation operations out there to grow and to invite anyone to come and see what Stennis has to offer," Carson said.

Also according to Carson, Inovar has not had any request for a mechanic that has not been met.

He also reported that the new instrument landing system installed at Stennis and have the airport designated as a Quick Fuel Customs Base to service non-scheduled aircraft flying between North and South America.

Aid in getting these projects underway is being sought from Senator John C. Stennis, for whom the airport was named.

Separate consideration of each article of a new constitution as called for in the senate bill, is the same, in his opinion, as the amendment process currently used.

The representative said the house bill describes procedures and schedules for calling the convention if doing so is approved by the state's voters.

The house bill also contains provisions for selection of delegates and specifies that the entire constitution, once rewritten, must be submitted to the state's voters for final approval.

Critics of the constitution include a committee that has 350 members appointed by Governor William Allain. That committee has already drafted a proposed new constitution.

Special interest groups pushing for a new constitution include League of Women Voters and the political action groups Common Cause and Mississippi First.

Proponents of a new constitution argue that the $3 million cost estimate is not too much to pay in proportion to the cost of inefficiencies in government allegedly caused by the present constitution.

In addition, they feel the current power to amend the constitution is given to the legislature when the people should be allowed to vote on amendment issues.

Strait draws full house

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

Score another plus for the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi for bringing in the George Strait Show Friday night.

The production, featuring country music aggregations from Texas and Nashville, was not a complete sell-out, but the gate could justifiably be termed a "full house."

Every seat worth sitting in was taken, and a small but enthusiastic group even occupied a considerable number of the seats in the upper level behind the stage.

George Strait, the handsome young balladeer who was selected as country music's outstanding male vocalist of the year in 1986, explains in one of his hits that all his ex's are in Texas and that's why he lives in Tennessee.

But the George Strait fan club was focused in Mississippi Friday night, specifically in Biloxi's Coast Coliseum.

Screams and squeals from a legion of adoring females greeted the first few notes of virtually every song, that's how familiar Strait's music is to his admirers.

Strait's gripping vocals, backed outstandingly by his Ace-In-The-Hole Band from San Marcos, Tex., leave little to be desired in a country music concert presentation.

In addition, Strait apparently makes a conscious effort to underplay his serious sex appeal.

When he does play on that rare quality among country singers, it is in a very subtle manner, with a throw-away style which makes his male audience just sleep in their seats with envy.

If Strait were to capitalize on his sex appeal a la Elvis Presley or today's rock singers with exaggerated body movements, it would take a triple row of stage-front security guards to keep the girls off the proscenium.

But Strait is generous in his rapport with the audience, taking time during the show to accept floral offerings from the fans, caps, shirts, cards and other gifts.

And he never complained about the constant stream of flashbulbs exploding in his face while he was trying to perform.

The Coliseum's security force put forth a commendable job of trying to keep the shutterbugs under control, but they were just overwhelmed by the persistence of the people determined to get a treasured keepsake closeup snapshot of Strait in performance.

However, the annoyance to the other members of the audience from the constant parade of photographers back and forth in the rows and up and down the aisles leaves something to be said for the policy insisted on by some performers that no cameras be allowed.

A hint to get a headstart on the seating traffic reigned many fans of the thrill of an electrifying encore performance by Strait and the band.

The Aces literally jammed through rousing versions of "South of the Border," a Strait original entitled "Let's Fall To Pieces Together," "Folsom Prison Blues," and "Marina Del Rey."

Another number worthy of note is Strait's arrangement of a "couldn't miss in Mississippi" song—that old Phil Harris standard, "That's What I Like About The South."

Strait's performance is highly professional, slick, polished and smooth as the creases in his starched blue jeans and neatly pressed western shirt.

An outstanding performance also should be credited to the members of Ace-In-The-Hole, especially Gene Eldus of Austin on fiddle, Ronnie Huckaby on piano, and Minnie McMurray on vocals, fiddle and guitar.

Strait, crowned in pre-concert publicity photos and all during the show in a big black felt cowboy hat, revealed in the closing moments of Friday's event to the delight of some apprehensive admirers that he does in fact have a full head of hair.

Adding the Tennessee touch to Friday's show was John Conlee and his band from Nashville with a full repertoire of hits to open the concert.

Conlee especially charmed the fans with his hit, "Rose Colored Glasses," and the innovative, "The Last Thing I Needed Was Somebody To Mess Up My Mind."

Ross asks Mississippi delegation to lower rates, halt foreclosure

JACKSON—Commissioner Jim Buck Ross of the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce recently asked Mississippi's Congressional delegation to support legislation to lower interest rates and delay foreclosures.

"One of the most urgent needs of the Mississippi farmer is to hold off foreclosure until Congress acts on solutions to the farm problem," Ross told the delegation in Washington. "High interest rates charged to agricultural producers by the Farmers Home Administration and other agricultural lenders is another major concern," he said.

Approximately 60 percent of the state's farmers receive their funds from the Farmers Home Administration. Of this amount, 49 percent of the borrowers and 42 percent of the money borrowed is delinquent.

Ross also supports mediation and job retraining for farmers who are faced with foreclosure.

Yacht Club presents '87 Mystic Ball

The Bay-Waveland Yacht Club Ladies Auxiliary staged its 13th annual Mystic Carnival Ball in the club's dining room. The scene was a veritable miniature Versailles with red velvet and gold satin drapes and a crystal chandelier hung above the Royal Throne.

Opening the "Gala Soiree" was Rear Commodore Col. Randolph Bourgeois making his grand entrance as Mephistopheles surrounded by frolicking maskers and the "Morrill" with their wives and families welcomed the seated guests by toasting beads and trinkets to the tables and inviting guests to dance.

Lieutenants Patricia Lanham and Gloria Woods circled the ballroom preceeding the grand entrance of His Royal Majesty Peter Morrill, who was met by Captain Verna Brennan and escorted to the throne.

The Royal Court of Dukes and Maids was: Mr. Matthew Hunter and Mrs. Vera Wasser, Mr. Rudy Jung and Mrs. Cathy Eagan, Mr. Pete Brotmeyer and Mrs. Margaret Shadoin, Mr. William Leapley and Mrs. Beth Benvenuti, Mr. Basil Kennedy and Mrs. Majorie Thomason, Mrs. Harold Spencer and Mrs.

Alice Duane.

Her Royal Majesty Elizabeth Johnson Benvenuti, escorted by Commodore Walter Chamberlain, entered to a fanfare and joined His Majesty and their Royal Court upon the throne.

Receiving with Auxiliary President Naomi Martin were Mrs. Malin Chamberlain, wife of the Commodore, and Mrs. Theresa Bourgeois, wife of the Rear Commodore.

Mr. Lawrence Martin, General Ball Committee Chairman, was assisted by Commodore Walter Chamberlain, Vice-Commodore Peter Morrill, Past Commodore Basil Kennedy, Messrs. Russell Lanham and Emmett Woods.

Court Committee Chairman Mr. Eldon Gilly was assisted by Messrs. Al Green and William Leapley.

The Ladies Court Committee was composed of Mesdames Marion Cook, Theresa Bourgeois, Barbara Fitch, Lake Gaudin, Weezie Kennedy, Gertrude Hatton, Billie Snider, Terry Brotmeyer, Lorraine Lressel, Marjorie Thomason, Bobbie Leapley and Rick Hamman.

Reservations were handled by Mesdames Betty Burnett and Bobbie Goodell.

The Ball was followed by a traditional breakfast of grillards and grits. Swinging music was provided by The Jokers led by Richard Holland.

Diamondhead Krewe crowns 1987 Royalty

The Krewe of Diamondhead staged its annual Coronation Ball on Saturday, Jan. 17 at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The festivities began with the announcement of the 1986 royalty, King All'i Honus IX, Clifford Thomas Saterlee, and his queen, Laura Almerico, by master of ceremonies, Bill Neff.

The 1987 royal couple was presented by Captain Benny Mistralla. King All'i Honus XII, Stanley J. Robert, and Queen Maecy's Swartzendruber proceeded to the throne where they were crowned. A procession around the floor followed.

Mistralla led a toast and officially declared Diamondhead's Mardi Gras activities underway. A proclamation by the newly crowned king followed thanking everyone present, especially his fiancée, Fran Gam-mill and the husband of the queen, Harold Swartzendruber.

Parade Lieutenant Chris Arnos then introduced the 1987 King and Queen of the Sea, King All'i Honus XII, Stanley J. Robert, and Queen Maecy's Swartzendruber, along with last year's King All'i Honus XI, Robert Calvey.

Past kings and queens who were present also were introduced: King All'i Honus I, Joe Salvatore; King All'i Honus III, Robert Pfingstfeldt and his queen, Mary Hoppert; King All'i Honus VIII, Tommy Hester, and his queen, Linda L. Bour; King All'i Honus IX, Clifford Thomas Saterlee, and his queen, Laura Almerico; and King All'i Honus X, Vincent Almerico, Sr.

and his queen, Ann Neff.

The newly crowned royal couple began the dancing for the evening and then invited the officers of the Krewe and the past royal couples to join them in the first dance. Music was provided by the Spectrum.

Triton to present Fats

Fats Domino and his band will be the Krewe of Triton's featured entertainer at its annual Carnival Dinner/Dance immediately following the Krewe's Coronation Ball and Tableau which begins at 8 p.m., Feb. 14 at the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Additional musical entertainment for the event will be provided by the Frankie Mann Orchestra, and Mystics of New Orleans, and Bo and Ms. Dee of Bay St. Louis.

"Obtaining the services of Fats Domino—a legend in his own time—is the culmination of a year of planning and effort to provide top quality entertainment for Krewe members, their wives, and our guests for the evening," said Noel Phillips, publicity chairman.

"This show is consistent with Triton's program to provide community oriented entertainment functions."

"Fats' performance will begin approximately at 11 p.m. and continue past midnight.

A limited number of tickets are available to the Dinner/Dance, and can be obtained through the members of Triton.

The cost for the Dinner/Dance, and setups is $50 per person and is strictly formal. Additional information can be obtained by calling Randolph Bourgeois, (801) 467-7792.

MATH SERIES

With the goal of guiding children from "square one to mathematics literacy," a new public television series parodies popular television formats to advance a math message.

"Square One TV" can be seen at 5:30 p.m., weekdays, beginning Jan. 26, on Mississippi ETV. "Captain Kangaroo," regularly seen at this time, will take a break from the ETV schedule and return this summer.

This new magazine-format series advances an interest in and enthusiasm for mathematics among 8- to 12-year-olds. Building on the premise that almost all children are "television literate," "Square One TV" parodies music videos, news reports, game shows, sitcoms and station breaks.

A continuing detective series called "Mathnet" is a daily feature, and one of the co-stars of this segment is Mary Watson, originally from Vicksburg and a graduate of Mississippi College.

The Lithotripter: The Alternative to Kidney Stone Surgery

Kidney stones are a painful and commonplace human ailment. And, until very recently, major surgery was the usual treatment.

Now there is the lithotripter, an advanced machine that focuses low-intensity shock waves on the brittle stones and crumbles them into pieces small enough to be flushed from the body in urination.

Lithotripsy involves little or no discomfort, requires no incision at all, and reduces hospitalization for kidney stone removal to a matter of a day or so, rather than weeks.

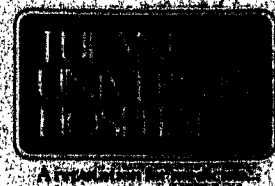

In fact, many lithotripsies are performed on an outpatient basis.

When it is carried out by a skilled and experienced medical team, lithotripsy has a success rate of approximately 97 percent.

The Gulf South's most experienced and respected lithotripsy center is Louisiana Lithotripter, Inc., at Tulane University Hospital — created by a group of 37 kidney specialists in Mississippi and Louisiana. LLI has performed well over 650 lithotripsies in the past year, and Tulane is one of only 16 medical centers in the country accredited by the American Urological Association to train physicians in the use of lithotripsy.

If you would like further information, consult your physician, or call us.

WEEKLY SPECIALS WILL DRIVE YOUR TOTAL FOOD COSTS HIGHER.

Take a look at the other weekly supermarket specials in this newspaper. And remember: for every low price listed, there's a much longer list of prices they had to keep high to pay for them.

The New Delchamps doesn't have weekly specials. Instead, we have Everyday Minimum Pricing—pricing that's absolutely lower on every item. Every day. So you get the minimum total food bill every week.
